for POTTING, ENCAPSULATING

Rubbery DPR absorbs shock and sound, is an excellent insulator and sealant. Components are not stressed by exotherm, shrinkage or thermal cycling. Readily pourable viscosity permits good penetration. Parts remain repairable and repotable. Compounds available for cable filling and dip coating.

for FLEXIBLE MOLDS

DPR Compounds drastically reduce the cost of mold making for casting plasters and low-exotherm resins. In many cases costly lay-up time and labor may be completely eliminated by the use of inexpensive DPR for the entire mold. Surface detail reproduction and "memory" are excellent.

for POURED GASKETS

Excellent flexibility and compression-set characteristics plus ease of preparation make DPR Compounds an ideal gasket material for many applications. Large or small, intricate or simple gaskets are readily castable in inexpensive or even improvised molds.
